Ahmedabad: With an aim to inspire aspiring business entrepreneurs of the country, IIM Kozhikode has taken up the initiative to set up a first-of-its-kind Museum of Indian Business History, which may house an original letter written by business magnate Mukesh Ambani or a pen used by stalwart JRD Tata that has had a significant impact on India's business history.

The museum aspires to be a unique, monumental and a significant step in acknowledging the contribution of India's business leaders in the making of India through significant business related historical artifacts, objects, sculptures, models, photographs, documents and illustrations.

The institute's director Debashis Chatterjee has written to corporate hotshots in India requesting them to contribute some significant historical objects/ artefacts.

CORPORATE BOSSES TO CHIP IN

"Acknowledging the landmark achievements that has been scored by esteemed corporates over the past several years/decades, and the invaluable contributions that has been given to our country, it is our earnest wish that these corporates participate in the making of this museum, by contributing some significant historical objects/ artifacts for which due acknowledgment will be attributed to the organization .It is our endeavour to consolidate and conserve the rare treasure of India's invaluable wealth," Chatterjee said.To be housed in the institute's library, IIM Kozhikode promises to take utmost care and showcase these artefacts with expertise.
